LONDON, April 11.—(BUP)—
The air ministry announced today that British bombing planes again bombs in a raid on Brest last night.

British bombing squadrons also raided the German Ruhr and Rhineland industrial districts, centering on Dusseldorf, during the night and yesterday.

The ministry said bombers carried out a surprise raid on the Berkum airport base off the north German coast.

IS STRENGTH RAID

French naval base at Brest many times since the German battleships were discovered there after British

President Roosevelt Announces Ships May Go All Way To Suez

United States Government Will Not Question Whether Supplies Consigned To Neutral May Reach Belligerent

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today reopened the Red Sea and Gulf of Aden to United States vessels.

The ships will be permitted to go all the way to the Suez Canal, since Egypt is neutral territory. While American vessels are not permitted under the Neutrality Act to carry war supplies to belligerents, the president made it clear the cargoes destined for a neutral country could be carried up the Red Sea and Gulf of Aden.

And, he indicated, there will be no question of the part of the government to explore the question of whether supplies consigned to a neutral might ultimately get to a belligerent.

The question, he said, being up all sorts of things, so he would have to say yes or no.

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that under the Neutrality Act it was forbidden for supplies sent to a neutral to reach belligerents ultimately.

Major Engagement Is Now Developing On North Frontier

Nazis Striking Toward Right Wing Anchor
Of British-Greek Main Defence Line
Near Mount Olympus

ATHENS, April 11.—(AP)—British expeditionary troops have clashed with Hitler's invaders for the first time in northern Greece, it was announced today, and the Battle of Greece apparently is developing.

Striking toward the right wing anchor of the British-Greek main defence line, in the vicinity of Tabled Mount Olympus, the Germans were reported to have captured
Yanitsa, 48 miles due north of the Olympus range.

Other Nazi columns were reported trying to push through the Bivoli Mountains, near the town of Yugoslavia, threatening the British left wing in a drive toward Philopoulos.

Heavy casualties
Headquarters of the British expeditionary force reported suffering resistance against the Germans in southern Yugoslavia where Nazi armored columns were said to be rolling southward from Priboj,
Yugoslavia, toward Belgrade.

Refugees arriving from Yugoslavia said the Slav forces fought valiantly, inflicting heavy losses on the invaders and suffering heavy casualties themselves, but that they had been surprised for the violent Nazi attack in the mountains, valleys, and river Sutrin and Vardar river valleys.

They quoted Yugoslav generals attributing the defeat mainly to a breakdown in communications, which left many units struggling in the dark, without knowledge of the movements of other units.

TELL OF CONTACT
The British command by the British expeditionary force announced that British troops established contact with the Germans yesterday.
Presumably this contact was developed through the engagement of the British (Mountain) group in Yugoslavia, just east of the junction

PLANS RUSHED FOR DEFENCES IN GREENLAND

By JOHN A. BECHMAN
WASHINGTON, April 11.—
REUTERS.—The United States rushes plans today for Greenland outposts of hemispheric defense and for intermediate landing fields for short-range American fighters along the coast of Greenland.

An emergency coast guard survey of accessible beaches and harbors on the vast ice-capped island was completed some time ago,
and is being studied by U. S.
army and navy officials.

The movement of men and material to construct bases and landing post facilities was expected soon, immediately.

Some Canadian military groups regarded the American move in the Arctic as having "broken Hitler's the punch." This new view was reflected even in government opposition circles in Washington.

Yugoslav Officers
Ordered To Act On
Own Initiative

ZURICH, April 11.—(BUP)—The radio station at Graz, in Austria,
just north of the Yugoslav frontier,
said today that the Yugoslav Yugoslav premier, has ordered all divisional commanders to act on their own initiative. He added that it is claimed that the instructions were issued in a Yugoslav order of

"THE SEVEN LAST WORDS FROM THE CROSS"

VI. "It is finished." St. John 19:30.

By Reverend J. MacBeath Miller, M.A., B.D.

Minister, First Presbyterian Church

N.Y. John recorded this word. Standing beneath the Cross he heard the victor cry, "It is finished."

In the Intercessory Prayer in John 17 our Lord prayed, "I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do."

Our Lord Jesus Christ came into the world to do two things. First, to come to reveal God. He revealed him in terms of men's physical hardness, but word of His Cross. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." Know me and you will know the Father, hear my word and you will know the word of God. Identify yourself with me and you will have the life of God abiding within you. "He that receiveth me receiveth Him that sent me."

Secondly, he came to make redemption a fact. In His Cross he established redemption. Many problems are guilt because all have sinned. Many cannot redeem himself. In the cross and blood of Christ, God made the provision that was necessary. The world ever since has been on a redemption basis, though countless professing Christians have not known it.

There is nothing more than can be done or need be done. It is a finished work.

What is the significance of this for us and for all men? It is that salvation is by faith and is a full and free gift. It is up to us to make this gift an effective one.

"God loved the world of sinners lost And rained by the full: Salvation is a finished cost. He offers free to all."

Wesley declared on the day of his conversion, "I felt my heart strangely warmed. I felt I had received the love of God, that Christ alone, for my salvation, and an assurance was given me that He had taken away my sins, even mine, and saved me from the law of sin and death."

CRASH CAUSE OF AIRLINER UNDETERMINED

Probe Fails To Find Reason For Trans-Canada Disaster

OTTAWA, April 11.—(CP)—A most exhaustive examination of the evidence has failed to determine the cause of the accident on Feb. 8 when a Trans-Canada airliner crashed three-quarters of a mile from the airport at Armstrong, Ont., causing the instant death of the pilot, co-pilot, stewardess, and nine passengers; a statement from Manitowish, Minn., was issued late Thursday.

The minister made public the report of the board of inquiry into the crash, and said no effort had been made in attempting to determine the cause of the accident.

"Since engine failure, structural failure, fuel weather, and so on, loading or incorrect loading have been ruled out beyond any reasonable doubt," said the report, "there would appear to remain three possible causes, each of which might by itself or in combination have caused this accident."

"They are: instant failure of engine, pilot error, fainting or sudden sickness overruling the pilot."

The report also stated that the pilot was not in a position to take control of the plane at the time of the crash.

Probe Fails To Find Reason For Trans-Canada Disaster

OTTAWA, April 11.—(CP)—A most exhaustive examination of the evidence has failed to determine the cause of the accident on Feb. 8 when a Trans-Canada airliner crashed three-quarters of a mile from the airport at Armstrong, Ont., causing the instant death of the pilot, co-pilot, stewardess, and nine passengers; a statement from Manitowish, Minn., was issued late Thursday.

The minister made public the report of the board of inquiry into the crash, and said no effort had been made in attempting to determine the cause of the accident.

"Since engine failure, structural failure, fuel weather, and so on, loading or incorrect loading have been ruled out beyond any reasonable doubt," said the report, "there would appear to remain three possible causes, each of which might by itself or in combination have caused this accident."

"They are: instant failure of engine, pilot error, fainting or sudden sickness overruling the pilot."

The report also stated that the pilot was not in a position to take control of the plane at the time of the crash.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(EUP)—American extension of jurisdiction in Greenland may lead to armed clashes between the United States and Germany in naval waters without actually committing to war. That is the opinion of the United Press naval expert, retired Rear Admiral Stirling.

Admiral Stirling says the taking over of Greenland also might be a step on the road to increasing supplies to Britain when and if Congress authorizes a convoy system. Under the Greenland agreement, the admiral points out that the Danish-occupied North Atlantic island becomes—in all intent and purpose—American territory. Therefore, the United States could charge that any German aggression toward it or around Greenland violates American neutrality, and there could be used to drive the Nazis off.

Greenland has just three miles outside the German zone. Admiral Stirling explains that under the pact signed with Denmark, the island is to be evacuated. Anti-air Stirling when these close proximity German aircraft or submarines there is a serious risk of developments. He says:

"Miss Babes"

Three "Miss Babes" and a church agreed to settle with the sailors who had been dumped off by William J. Wright, ex-convict, Toronto plumber, by sharing the Wright estate. The will named a chief beneficiary a "Miss Babe" who Wright met in a barroom near Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1918. At that time "Miss Babe" was five years old. The will provided that if she could not be traced, the $22,222 fortune would go to a Toronto church. Three women were claiming to be the "Miss Babe" in question and the settlement was made to prevent costly court litigation from dissipating the estate.

May Lead To Armed Clashes Expert Says

NEW YORK, April 11.—(EUP)—American extension of jurisdiction in Greenland may lead to armed clashes between the United States and Germany in naval waters without actually committing to war. That is the opinion of the United Press naval expert, retired Rear Admiral Stirling.

Admiral Stirling says the taking over of Greenland also might be a step on the road to increasing supplies to Britain when and if Congress authorizes a convoy system. Under the Greenland agreement, the admiral points out that the Danish-occupied North Atlantic island becomes—in all intent and purpose—American territory. Therefore, the United States could charge that any German aggression toward it or around Greenland violates American neutrality, and there could be used to drive the Nazis off.

Greenland has just three miles outside the German zone. Admiral Stirling explains that under the pact signed with Denmark, the island is to be evacuated. Anti-air Stirling when these close proximity German aircraft or submarines there is a serious risk of developments. He says:

Others hold that Greenland might become a relay point between American and British naval forces—should the United States find it necessary to convoy English shipping.

ONE FOR THE MONEY

By Louise Holmes

John's professional attempt to become a professional actor, after a long and fruitless career in the theatre, had finally come to an end. He had decided to try his luck in the big time, and had just landed a part in a new play. The play was a comedy, and John was to play the part of a wealthy man who had fallen in love with a poor girl. John was a very handsome man, and he was sure that he would be a success. He had been in the theatre for many years, and he knew that he was a good actor. He was sure that he would be a success in the big time.

Julie made a dramatic entrance. Voices ceased their aimless chatter, heads turned, riveted. She stood in the arched doorway, looking about the room in no way revealing her dismay.

Alas, my well-meaning efforts to help my suffering sisters to a more pleasant life have been with little result. I have had a letter from a sister who writes me that she is so miserable that she has decided to leave her home and go to the city. I have written her that I will try to help her, but she has written back that she is too old and too poor to go to the city. I have written her that I will try to help her, but she has written back that she is too old and too poor to go to the city.

Now, I feel that I am in a position to help her. I have written her that I will try to help her, but she has written back that she is too old and too poor to go to the city. I have written her that I will try to help her, but she has written back that she is too old and too poor to go to the city.

Roast Fowl For Easter Feasts With Budget Menu

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
1. Roast a good roasting pig with an orange in its mouth as a traditional Easter treat. In other parts of the country a number of baby-lamb is the specialty. But for the budget menu, roast a pig. Roast chicken is a standard fare for Easter. For a large family, a good bird is a good thing. A pig of lamb is always welcome at Easter, too. But be sure to pick it the modern way for best results. Pick the lamb for a few days before you cook it. Pick it in the morning, and salt it in the evening. Do not use any water and do not cover. Preheat your oven to moderate (350 degrees F.). Place your meat in the oven, and cook at the same temperature (350 degrees F.) until done, about 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

Scuttled In Nazi Style When Peru Boarded Axis Ships

The German freighter SS. Monserrate is shown burning and listing after the ship had been fired by her crew off Lima, Peru. The crew also opened the aircraft before abandoning the ship. Another German ship, the Leizaola, also was scuttled as Peruvian authorities began to follow the example set by the United States in seizing Axis ships in American waters. The Peruvian government also seized two Junkers airplanes, hangars and workshops of the German Luftwaffe airline at Lima.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

Ambridge recently has a share of championship tournaments. They have an inter-department team of four which was won in 1940 by the British department. There is the Naval Officers Club pair championship which was won in 1940 by L. H. C. Ruel, class of 1938, and L. D. Hyatt, class of 1931. Both these officers have retired, but are now back on duty.

In discussing the following hand I made the remark, "You must certainly bluff in bag that one," whereby I found out that the Ambridge book is referred to as the "Turkey bag" hand. So I'll call this the "Turkey bag" hand.

East's rather unorthodox opening proved to be the killer. West took set of spades and returned ♠ 4 to East to ruff.

Now East should have led the king of clubs to clear his club trick before declarer could establish dummy tricks. Declarer would then have no way to avoid the loss of two more tricks.

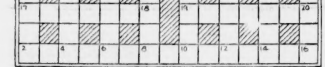

Instead, East led a diamond forcing out West's ace. West returned another spade and returned East had no more trumps. Declarer of course picked up West's trumps and cashed ten top tricks.

All the verticals are five-letter words that link with the seven-letter words in the top and bottom rows. The six-letter words connect each other. That is, each seven-letter word shares three of its letters with the one in the row below, as indicated by the numbering of the definitions.

There are also two intermediate seven-letter words which cross the middle letters of the verticals. Pay strict attention to the numbering and you'll have no trouble; the design will work itself out as you proceed.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

It is not until a woman is past the sunny side of thirty that she is troubled enough with mischievous about her throatline to be willing to work to hang on to it. But once you have decided it is time to take some beauty measures, you can do a surprising lot. You need a little exercise, plenty of cold cream, massage, and the habit of holding your head beautifully erect. Let's take them up in the order in which you are most likely to do them.

You can "nourish" the throat line with any cold cream—the only way you can do it through the circulation. But you can keep the skin well lubricated to ward off a crepey appearance. You should use cream on your throat just as often as you use it on your face.

Before massaging the throat, cleanse carefully, then apply a generous amount of cream or oil. The technique is to work from the base of the throat up to the chin, then out. "Knuck" massage seems to be best for it avoids stretching the skin. Make the hands into fists and place at the base of the throat column, then slowly "walk" the knuckles up to the chin, work deeply there the fat padding, separate this and continue along jawline.

Exercise for the throat and chin line is the most important measure—after all, your throat column is seven-eighths muscle. But there are—admittedly—some women who are so plump and so easy that they should not be considered a part of your daily dose.

Here are a couple you can do in the morning before getting up or at night after you have gone to bed. Lie on the back across the bed with the head hanging loosely over the edge. Now, tense the throat muscles and slowly raise the head until the spine is in a straight line. Slowly return to position and relax the muscles. Repeat five times.

Roll over and lie face down, full length on the bed—without pillow. Clasp hands in back arms straight, and lift head and shoulders off the bed with a good stretch and pull of shoulder and neck muscles. Hold for a second and slowly return to position. Relax and repeat. This exercise not only improves the line of the throat, but affects that fat pad at the nape of the neck we call the "swaggy hump."

After massage or exercise, cold cream may be left on overnight, but when exercise is taken in the morning, it should be removed and cold water splashed over throat. The cold water is a circulation stimulant.

None of this will do much good unless you round out your program with constant attention to head carriage. Use those muscles at the edge of the throat to carry your head. That's what they're for. Stretch your neck as long as you can, it will still keep the chin level and try to make a habit of it.

British Evacuation Aid Euphoric Of Greek City

ATHENS, April 11—(AP)—British and Australian airmen and transport drivers evaded in the evacuation of Salamis although the British expeditionary force had not yet gone into action against the Germans. It was disclosed Thursday night.

Transport drivers also participated in rescue work for the Greek sailors. In the street from the Salamis area one heavy British truck was said to have deliberately rammed and wrecked a German light truck.

The drivers blew up strategic bridges, sabotaged oil dumps and cut communications.

Winnipeg Rivers Are Rising Fast

WINNIPEG, April 11—(UPI)—The Red and Assiniboine rivers are rising rapidly as a result of melting snow and a fairly heavy rain fell during the past few days. Thursday's measurement by the city engineer's department shows the water level has risen six feet two inches above the normal datum level. Experts state, however, there is no danger of flooding unless the ice breaks and piles up to dam the back water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Question—George T. asks: "One of my fingers is contracted such a way that I cannot straighten it out. The finger does not pain me and a small amount of movement is still possible."
Answer—A contraction such as you describe may be caused by a through cutting. However, when the finger has not been injured through accident it is sometimes possible to secure good results through massage, through constantly trying to move the affected finger even though a determined effort is required, through stimulating the circulation by placing the finger in alternating hot and cold water and through the use of electrical treatment. Before advising you definitely whether or not it will be possible to entirely straighten the finger, it would be necessary for me to first examine it. However, I am glad that you try the methods I have suggested as they may help you.
